STRESS is the reaction people have to excessive pressure placed on them. Farmers work under extreme pressure and have no control over various aspects of their work including the weather. We often hear the term stress used in relation to other occupations but it is not a term commonly used by farmers. Farming by nature is a very stressful occupation. Confidential advice and help is available from many sources including the following Helplines:

Aware Helpline 1890 303 302, Samaritans – 24 hour support phone 1850 609090
